“Spring Ahead”

Daylight Saving Time begins at 2 a.m. on Sunday, March 9, 2014. Many clocks, such as those on cell phones and computers will automatically update overnight, but other clocks such as those on alarm clocks, microwaves, stoves and car radios may have to be manually set Saturday night before going to bed.

Goodin Takes Hoops Contest

With eight teams in the top-25 polls upset over the weekend, this edition of the Adair Progress Basketball Contest saw lower scores nearly across the board. A handful of entrants, however, foresaw many of the surprises, with this week’s winner, Danny Goodin, predicting 17 games correctly to take the top spot.

Goodin’s 17 included predictions of wins for Oklahoma State, Memphis, Virginia Commonwealth and Connecticut, who all scored upset victories on Saturday. Just behind Goodin with 16 correct submissions was Josh Grant, and third place required a tiebreaker as both Anthony Riddle and Mary Loy predicted 15 games correctly. Riddle’s tiebreaker score of a 10-point UK win over South Carolina was closer to UK’s actual five-point loss than Loy’s prediction of a 14-point Cats win.

For his victory, Goodin earns $25 and a Sonic Combo Value Meal. Second place nets Grant a six-pack of Ski courtesy of Coca-Cola Bottling Company and Western Kentucky University and a Burger King Whopper Value Meal. Riddle, along with this week’s random drawing winner, Audie Beard, will receive a Sonic Combo Value Meal as well.

State Police Warn Against Passing On The Shoulder

Post 15 has received an increase in complaints of vehicles passing on the right side of the roadway (shoulder) and has seen an increase in the number of collisions resulting from these improper passes.

GREEN COUNTY has had 3 collisions in recent months at the intersection of US 68 and Marshall Ridge Road in the area of Rocky Run.

The Kentucky state law reads:
“...the operator of a vehicle may overtake and pass upon the right of another vehicle only under the following conditions: when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn; upon a roadway with an

County Frozen By Winter Storm

Snow Keeps Residents Indoors, Cancels School

By WES FEESE
EDITOR

It appears that winter will not go quietly this year, as a nasty mix of rain, ice, and snow fell Sunday night and Monday morning, effectively shutting down the entire county Monday and leaving roads in dangerous conditions for the next few days.

Nearly all county and city offices closed Monday, as did the Adair County Extension Office, Adair County Schools, and many local businesses. School remained canceled Tuesday and Wednesday, and Superintendent Alan Reed speculated that it would likely be closed Thursday as well.

“Our number-one priority has been and always will be students’ safety,” Reed said Tuesday. “[Transportation director] David Jones and I would not put a bus on the road that we wouldn’t feel comfortable riding ourselves.”

The rain and sleet that came before the snow blanketed every surface with a thick layer of ice, and temperatures dipped more than 20 degrees below the average for this time of year. Despite road crews working nearly around the clock, travel remained difficult for most and impossible for some.

“We actually haven’t had very many wrecks though,” Adair County 911 director Greg Thomas said Tuesday. “I think most Piles of snow several feet high lined Jamestown Street early this week as a result of the rain, ice, and snow storm that swept through Adair County late Sunday night and early Monday morning. Most roads and parking lots in the city limits have been cleared, but driving conditions in other areas of the county remain hazardous.

Editorial Commentary
Written By
Wes Feese, EDITOR

When I was a kid, I used to love the movie Rocky IV. For those unfamiliar with the 1985 cinematic masterpiece, it's the story of how Sylvester Stallone avenged his friend Apollo Creed's death by boxing a brutal Soviet that looked like Vanilla Ice pumped full of steroids. Long story short, Rocky—always the underdog—beats the odds, and the Russian, gives a speech about people changing, and somehow this ends the Cold War.

Fast forward 29 years, and the United States is once again at odds with Russia, this time because of its intervention in Ukraine. Sadly though, this looks like one situation that can't be solved with Sylvester Stallone's fists, and I fear that any American involvement in the matter will be long, messy, drawn out, and expensive.

First of all, I'm not even suggesting that we support the Russian invasion. The matter is incredibly complex, as Ukraine has experienced a great deal of political upheaval of late, with its president and its military on opposite sides of the fight. I don't mind politicians speaking their opinion on the matter, even speaking harshly to Russia for their actions.

I do mind, though, when elected officials shift their focus from representing their constituents to policing the entire world. It's not our job to intervene in international conflicts just because we feel one side might be in the right. It made me sick reading Sen. Marco Rubio's (R-Fla.) op-ed saying that the Russia/Ukraine situation is "the biggest international crisis in years." Really? We just fought two decade-long wars at the same time.

Rubio also states that Congress should "take quick action to punish Vladimir Putin." I can't imagine this kind of rhetoric is what landed Rubio his seat in the Senate. I doubt his campaign was: "Florida: Vote Rubio. He will police Eastern Europe like an overzealous elementary school hall monitor and PUNISH presidents of other countries." It's ridiculous.

I believe the U.S. media has perpetuated and encouraged this line of thought though, and I worry that as our regular folks will begin to buy into the trumped-up American reporting on the matter. Read any European newspaper (it's easy online with Google Translate) and the talk is far more nuanced and complex. The headlines aren't as flashy, but it gives you the idea that the people who are actually close to the situation, the people that have been following it from the start, living it firsthand, aren't so sure that Putin's involvement is such a bad thing.

I won't go that far, because I'm not qualified or educated enough on the issues to offer a comprehensive breakdown one way or the other, but that's kind of the point. We aren't over there, not even on the same continent. There are 350 million people right here, in our country, that all have problems they want addressed, problems and issues that affect them, and very few of them know or care what's happening thousands of miles away in a different country.

I don't want us wasting billions of dollars of our money, money we all pay in taxes, to interfere in a conflict in which most Americans don't even have a rooting interest. The argument I've heard from friends that disagree with me is that you can't let a sovereign nation invade another sovereign nation. First of all, we allow this stuff all the time, we even do it, so the real argument is: "We can't let someone invade another country without our permission."

This is really what it comes down to. President Obama and Congress drew a line in the sand and told Russia they better not cross it, so now they feel like they have to keep their word. I understand this line of thinking, but it's immature and misguided. Maybe the problem isn't that Russia invaded Ukraine but that officials elected to represent us would rather flex their muscles to the rest of the world and police Europe than work to solve the problems on this side of the Atlantic.

That's my take. We need to stay out of it. Our tax dollars are better spent investing in our own country, and if we intervene we have no idea how long or expensive the endeavor may become. We can't count on Rocky Balboa to bail us out again—he's getting old.

Physicians and Dentists from Adair County Part 12

Continuing: A Partial List of Physicians and Dentists from Adair County History, Part 12. This is not considered complete, nor certainly up to date, but is a beginning point for future researchers.

Vigle, John B., attended University of Louisville and was graduated in 1906; practiced in the early 1900s around Knifley and Roley, and at Chattanooga, TN in 1913. He was a son of W.T. Vigle and was born in Russell County.

Voils, William, born 1808 in Greene County, TN, came to Adair County and died at the advanced age of 106 years in 1913. He resided and practiced for many years in the Fairplay-Glensfork area. He was an unregistered "bocanical doctor" who treated patients with herbs. He was noted for his "tonigans" and "stinigins" and, at times, his "hellbuck" preparations.

"Dr. William Voils, who lives at Russell Springs, was 102 years old last January. He is in perfect health and his mind is good. His grandson informed the News last Thursday that the old gentleman worked some every day and that he read, weekly, the Adair County News, without glasses." --Adair County News, 18 May 1910
A full article on Dr. Voils will appear shortly.--MW Waggener, E. Arthur, native of Greensburg, son of Thomas Waggener and Katherine Adair, he was "partly reared" in Columbia, graduated from University of Louisville Medical School in 1871, began practice in 1872. He left Kentucky when young and practiced out West. He was in a serious accident at Burlington, Iowa about 1895 and his health never recovered. He came back to Columbia to live in 1909 and boarded at the Hancock Hotel until his death. He applied to the State Board of Health and was granted a license to practice in Kentucky; was known as "an eminently qualified surgeon and physician." He was also a graduate of Bellevue College, New York City, and Prof. Loomer's Clinical School of Bellevue Hospital. He was born 29 January 1845 Green County, died here in Columbia, 5 May 1913, aged 69 years, with burial in the Columbia Cemetery.

Waggener, Herbert G., Adair County, attended Transylvania Medical School in Lexington in the mid-1830s, but was already practicing in Adair in 1828; resided Cumberland County in 1840 and 1850, practicing as a physician, but 1860 Cumberland census listed him as a blacksmith. He was born about 1794 in Virginia. He saw service in the War of 1812 as a private in Captain Butler's Company, and later received a pension for his services.

Walford, Dr. , resided at Caney Fork in Green County and practiced in Adair and Green in the 1860s and 1870s. This may be a misplaced reference to Dr. John Milton Wolford of Montpelier, Russell County, who had a widespread practice over several counties.

Walker, Chalmers, son of Dr. T.Q. Walker, born 12 July 1853, practiced in Columbia in the 1860s and 1870s, and at Leatherwood. He was severely crippled in an accident and discontinued his practice; resided in Illinois with a sister at the end of his life. He died in his new hometown, Macomb, Illinois, in May 1904.

Walker, Harrison Q., born about 1825 in Adair County, was practicing in the county in about 1860.

Walker, Henry Clay, "student of medicine" in 1860 census of Adair; born 9 April 1838 Adair County, died 7 December 1873 Forest City, Mason County, Illinois; married Harriett Ann Dohoney, a daughter of Peyton Dohoney, in 1865. Her was a corporal in Company B, 13 Kentucky Infantry in Civil War. The 1870 Mason County, Illinois census gives his profession as dry goods merchant.

Walker, Tunstall Quarles, son of Joseph Walker, born 24 April 1810 in Adair, died 1 January 1874 at Columbia. He began practice in 1832, practiced in Illinois and in Green and Cumberland Counties before returning back to Adair in 1859; practiced here until his death. He served a time in the 5th KY Cavalry, Union Army. Listed as graduate of University of Louisville Medical Department, class of 1840. [He was listed as preceptor for Robert Alexander at the University of Louisville, 1854-55 term.]

Watson, Lindsey, native of Adair County, lived much of his life in Metcalfe County where he died in 1884.

Webb, George, practiced dentistry in Columbia for many years, until his death in the 1980s.

Webb, Watts, native of Adair, a cardiovascular surgeon in Syracuse, NY.

Wesley, Dr. --This is likely a reference to Dr. Joshua T. Wesley, 1839-1909, who practiced in Casey County for many years. His practice overlapped into surrounding counties, likely Adair was one of them. Also practicing in Casey were: Dr. Isaiah S. Wesley, 1867-1934; Dr. Cyrus Wesley, 1863-1924; and Dr. Perry Wesley, 1869-1904.

Wheat, Benjamin F., practiced in Adair in the 1850s, listed as a druggist in the 1860 census of the town of Columbia. Born 1836 in Adair, died at Hale, Missouri in December 1907, he was a son of Eli Wheat of Columbia. Dr. Wheat, physician, resided in Green County in the Lower Brush Creek precinct in 1870; in Carroll County, Missouri by 1880, and still in 1900. The Directory of Deceased American Physicians, 1804-1929, lists Dr. Wheat as an 'allopath', with credentials from Missouri Medical College, St. Louis, 1882.

Wheat, Joseph Z., was graduated from University of Louisville Medical Department in 1849; practicing in Adair in the 1850s. One son, his name-sake, died at San Antonio, Texas, in November 1906, aged 54.

Wheat, William D., was born 1853, practiced dentistry at Glensfork in 1880, died 17 February 1890 and was buried in the Helm Cemetery at Glensfork.

White, James Bramlette, son of Thomas White, practiced in the county, particularly in his native area, the Tabor community, from the 1820s until he left Adair for Danville, KY, in the mid-1850s. He died at Danville 3 February 1875, age 75 years. He was one of the men instrumental in establishing the school in Columbia in 1844. He attended Transylvania Medical School in Lexington in the 1830s.

White, James Sanders, born in Toronto, Canada about 1864, spent most of his life in Taylor County, graduated from University of Tennessee Medical School in 1887 and practiced in Columbia in the 1890s. He died at Junction City, buried at Campbellsville, Taylor County.

Financial Aid Tip of the Month, March 2014

Tips About Student Loans

Many students find that they must use loans to help pay for a higher education, especially if they're working on a four-year degree. These tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may help lessen the impact of borrowing.

•If you haven't already done so, submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You may not think you'll qualify for federal aid, but the only way to find out is to apply.

•Find all the sources of financial aid that don't have to be paid back first--grants, scholarships and work-study--before turning to loans.

•Borrow only what you need. Remember, you have to repay your loan. If the school's financial aid package awards you $5,000 in federal loans but you only need $3,000, just borrow the $3,000.

•Use federal student loans first. You'll generally have more repayment options when it's time to start making payments.

•If you can, pay the interest on Federal Unsubsidized Loans while you're in school. Otherwise, the interest will be added to your principal and you'll end up paying more.

•If you need a private loan, do some research to find the one that best fits your situation.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's student financial aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES).

tricuspid valve, and he experienced heart failure.

"For him to have been a healthy 21-year-old and then a few months later be told he has heart failure was just a shock," Ms. Farrer said.

Talyn was sent to Jewish Hospital in Louisville, where doctors replaced what is known as the AV node of the heart, responsible for making it beat, installed a pacemaker, replaced the tricuspid valve, and all but rebuilt various muscle tissue and chambers of his heart.

"We actually lost him a couple of times," Farrer said. "During the surgery and the few weeks in open heart, he had to be resuscitated on a few occasions."

Miraculously, however, Talyn began to get better, at least temporarily. The doctors treated his infection and Talyn was released in November to continue treatment from home.

Then, on Dec. 17, Talyn awoke with shortness of breath. After being rushed back to the hospital, it was discovered that he had multiple septic pulmonary emboli, which meant that three bacteria were growing on his heart.

On New Years Eve, Talyn became the first person ever to undergo surgery for replacement of cardiac muscle due to necrosis from bacteria.

"It was a Hail Mary," Farrer admitted. "If we didn't do the surgery, he was going to die. If we did the surgery, there was a chance he would die. We just had to give it a shot."

The bacterium, which is usually microscopic, was roughly the size of a marble on Talyn's heart—the largest documented measurement ever. The anomaly attracted the attention of the renowned Mayo Clinic, which took an interest in treating Talyn.

"In a way, we were lucky it was large enough to gain their attention," his mother said. "The Clinic in Phoenix is the only place with the capabilities to destroy the bacteria."

Currently, Talyn is not in heart failure, but is taking what his mother describes as a box full of medication every single day. The family is living in Louisville now, with Talyn unable to be more than 20 minutes away from the hospital. The financial strain on the family has been immense, and the roughly $20,000 cost to go to Phoenix for treatment at the Mayo Clinic still looms.

"We're doing everything we can," Farrer said, noting that she, Talyn's wife, Christa, and nine-month-old daughter Melody are in Louisville with her son while her husband,

Mitchell, works to support the treatments. "They say he'll die from this if we don't get rid of it. It will just come back if they treat it here."

The family has already received some help from friends and family, but with the ongoing expense, still wonder where the money to send Talyn to Phoenix for the life-saving treatment will come from.

"I know people really come together to help in bad times," Farrer said. "I'm very lucky and blessed to have the people in my life that I do. Everyone has prayed us through this, and we're going to keep fighting."

For those willing to help, an account is set up at the Bank of Columbia under the name Talyn Wheeler for fundraising efforts for his treatment.

prayers for her family, but declined to comment on the matter in depth.

"Brian and Eric are both my sons," Melton said. "I love them both very much, but I'm not going to comment any further on that."

When state police received the call about the assault at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Fletcher was being treated for multiple stab wounds at Westlake Regional Hospital. He was later released, and a warrant was issued for Melton. He was located and subsequently arrested in Russell County a few minutes after 6 p.m.

Melton was lodged in Adair County Regional Jail where he spent the night before being released the Friday afternoon. KSP Tpr. Kenny Brown and Tpr. Nick Hale are continuing the investigation.

Simple Steps to Keep Scammers at Bay

KU and LG&E offer tips for customers as part of National Consumer Protection Week

Whether it's over the phone, through direct email, on the internet or a knock on your front door, today's con artists have no shortage of ways to take advantage of unsuspecting consumers. In an effort to keep scammers at bay and in conjunction with National Consumer Protection Week, Kentucky Utilities Company and Louisville Gas and Electric Company are reminding customers of tips to help avoid getting swindled and to guard against scams that could be associated with our company.

Several utility fraud schemes have swept the nation in recent years. One involves a caller who claims to be a utility employee and asks for immediate bill payment by credit card or prepaid money card. If the targeted customer does not cooperate, the caller threatens to disconnect the person's electric or natural gas service. In another, customers receive emails, from what appears to be their utility provider, stating a past due amount and directing them to click a link.

KU and LG&E offer the following SAFE advice to residential and business customers:

- Secure your personal information: KU and LG&E will never call and ask for credit or debit card numbers or other personal information.
- Always remember you have bill payment options: KU and LG&E offer customers a variety of official payment options. A complete list can be found at www.lge-ku.com/ways_to_pay.asp.
- First check with KU and LG&E if you're suspicious: Customers who receive a suspicious live phone call, an email or letter should call KU and LG&E who will always verify official communications. KU customers should call 1-800-981-0600. LG&E customers should call 502-589-1444 (outside Louisville at 1-800-331-7370).

- Elect to speak to a KU and LG&E representative: As a courtesy, KU and LG&E do make computer-generated calls to remind customers if their payment is late, and the call includes an option for customers to select if they want to make their payment by phone.

KU and LG&E encourage customers to always obtain positive identification in the event someone appears at their door stating they are there on any company's behalf. KU and LG&E employees carry authentic company ID badges which — whether issued to an employee or a contractor — show the companies' logos. An employee ID card always has the employee's name and color photograph on the front as well. Sometimes there are legitimate service-related reasons the utilities may need access to a customer's home, but in-person contact at a customer's home never involves collecting payment for a monthly bill.

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Ann Melton, Adair County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Sheila Blair, Adair County Clerk
Members of the Adair County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

Report on the Financial Statement

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Clerk of Adair County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2012, and the related notes to the financial statement.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statement

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the County Clerk on the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County Clerk, as of December 31, 2012, or changes in financial position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 2012, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated December 2, 2013 on our consideration of the Adair County Clerk's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. Center of KY Dairy Short Course

The Annual Center of Kentucky Dairy short course took place last month providing dairymen some of the latest technologies and research in dairy management. A collaborative effort by the Adair, Green, and Taylor County Cooperative Extension services, the Center of Kentucky short course has been an annual tradition for over a decade. With over thirty sessions offered in the past, we sometimes wonder what we will be able to come up with next. With input sought from dairy producers and Extension specialists, there seems to always be something new to discover in the dairy industry. The short course kicked off with a discussion led by Dr. Donna Amaral-Phillips, UK Dairy Nutritionist, on dairy feed efficiency. Simply put, dairy feed efficiency is the amount of milk produced per the amount of dry matter consumed. Dairy feed efficiency can be affected by many things other than the ration itself. Days in milk, genetics, cow comfort, and health are just a few examples. Each participant calculated dairy feed efficiency for their own farm. Participants discovered if their own farm’s feed efficiency fell within industry benchmarks or if there was potential room for improvement. Most dairies feed efficiency met benchmarks, however a few were slightly below expectations. As a result, these farmers were able to identify issues limiting their efficiency on their dairy. If you would like to calculate the dairy feed efficiency for your own farm, a simple calculator can be found online at <http://afsdairy.ca.uky.edu/extension/nutrition/milkingcows/calculators>. Dr. Amaral-Phillips also noted that when selecting sires, we can unintentionally select for larger frame size when selecting for other

March is severe weather awareness month and to help prepare everyone for severe weather in the upcoming severe weather season The Adair County Search and Rescue will be hosting a weather spotters training and information session Wednesday March 12th at 6 pm cst. At Cramner dinning center conference room on the campus of Lindsey Wilson College. The training will be instructed by meteorologist Stephanie Midgett from WBKO 13 TV. This is open to everyone and encourage the public to attend to learn how to be prepared for severe weather in our area in the future. For more information call Shannon Rowe 270-634-2345.

traits that impact profitability. Larger cattle consume more feed and if not adequately offset by higher production, feed efficiency decreases. Dr. Amaral-Phillips feels that there will be a larger emphasis placed on efficiency in future dairy genetics. The second session was led by Mark Witherspoon with Mid-South Dairy Records. Witherspoon provides an update on new PC Dart features and DHIA services. One new feature of PC Dart is “Money Corrected Milk”. This feature allows dairymen to determine the income derived from each cow based upon her milk production, components, and quality bonuses. The Money Corrected Milk feature can be found on the input desk of PC Dart. Witherspoon also discussed milk pregnancy testing now offered by DHIA. Milk pregnancy testing is highly accurate and can confirm pregnancy within 35 days of breeding and 60 days post calving. Milk pregnancy testing services are offered by Mid-South at a rate of $4 per cow. Samples can be collected on testing day or shipped to the lab by the producer anytime. The third and final session featured Dr. Christina Peterson-Wolfe, Associate Professor of Virginia Tech. Dr. Peterson-Wolfe is recognized nationally as an expert in mastitis in dairy cattle. Joining the group via Skype, Dr. Peterson-Wolfe discussed the benefits of on-farm milk culturing for mastitis. On-farm milking culturing can many times provide quicker culture results to dairymen, thus accelerating the availability of information needed to properly diagnose the cause and respond to mastitis infections. Dr. Jeffery Bewley, UK Dairy Systems Management Specialist, and Amanda Sterrett, UK Graduate Student, demonstrated milk culturing procedures and how to interpret plate results. At least one participant, David Hutchison, has already begun culturing on farm. “I’ve only cultured a few samples so far, on-farm culturing requires some practice to become comfortable with interpreting plate results, but I think it is feasible for a dairy farm to implement.” Supplies needed to conduct on-farm culturing includes: swabs, gloves, sample containers, an incubator ($50-60), and media plates ($2-3).

New Telephone Scam Targeting Area Residents

BY BLAKE SPIRES
ASST. EDITOR
Earlier this week, a concerned citizen brought to our attention the presence of a new telephone scam being attempted in the community. The scam uses the number 1-855-992-9809 and a man under the name John Marsh to inform the person called that a criminal case is pending against them. They then instruct the individual to purchase a green dot money card and send it to a specified location in order to avoid further legal trouble. “There’s several of these going on right now,” Columbia Police Chief Jason Cross said Tuesday afternoon. “Some are even using the names of family members or pretending to be lawyers.” “You just don’t want to ever give personal information--date of birth, social security, credit card information or anything like that over the phone,” Cross continued. “Don’t ever send money to anyone contacting you in that way. If a family member or you are in trouble, you won’t find out over the phone like that.”

people knew this was coming, so they prepared and just stayed inside.”

Just as Adair County’s citizens were prepared to stay inside, Judge-Executive Ann Melton said that the early forecast of bad weather allowed the County Road Dept. time to prepare as well.

“We had fair warning,” Melton said. “We had four people that came in Sunday night to get ready and they worked all night long. They went home in the morning but then came back. We’ve had people going nonstop from Sunday evening until about 7 p.m. [Monday] night, and they were all back again [Tuesday] morning.”

Although no serious accidents have been reported, roads were bad enough that several County Road Dept. trucks slid off the roads while they were working to make the streets manageable for motorists.

“We’ve had trucks in the ditch everywhere,” Melton said bluntly.

State and county salt trucks and plows have been running the roads almost nonstop since Sunday night, but the extremely cold temperatures preserved some ice-covered roads. Even prominent roadways like Greensburg Street were covered with so much ice Monday that the center yellow line was not at all visible for long stretches.

The cancelation of school presented its own unique challenges for administrators, as the last day of school for students will now spill over into the first week of June. Some teachers and administrators are required to attend training as part of the Race to the Top Grant Program the second week of June, and Reed acknowledged that there is very little wiggle room left in the school calendar.

“That really does put us under the gun to finish,” Reed said.

A potential savior in this regard might be House Bill 410, which proposes to waive up to 10 instructional days for districts that have missed several days due to weather. State representatives on the education committee were scheduled to consider the bill Tuesday, but the meeting was canceled, somewhat fittingly, due to harsh road conditions.

Another proposed bill, also still at the committee phase, would allow school on May 20, the day for primary elections, providing at least one day to move up the last day of school.

While forecasts call for warmer temperatures later this week, Thomas urges all motorists to continue exercising caution when traveling, especially on bridges or in other areas where ice may linger around a bit longer.

“You should still allow some extra time to get where you’re going because even after the roads thaw, they freeze back at night and create black ice,” Thomas said. “Allow for extra stopping distance and take all the precautions you can, because the roads may look clear but they could still be dangerous.”

LWC Students, Staff Attend National Conference On Student Engagement

Eight Lindsey Wilson College students and staff members spent their weekend at a national conference about student engagement.

The students, who are members of LWC’s “Introduction to Community Development” class, attended the IMPACT Conference, held Friday through Sunday in Valparaiso, Ind.

The IMPACT Conference is the largest annual conference in the nation focused on engaging college students in service, advocacy and social action. The 30-year-old conference brings together students, administrators, faculty, AmeriCorps members and VISTAs, and nonprofit professionals.

Wine To Water™ Event March 22

Lake Cumberland Winery will host the first annual Kentucky Spring Wine Festival. It will be a fundraiser to benefit Wine To Water™, 122 Cedar Lane Farm, Cumberland Ridge Road, Monticello, KY from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

On Saturday, March 22, four Small Farm Wineries located in South Central Kentucky will join together to draw attention to the worldwide crisis concerning the lack of clean drinking water.

Norrie Wake, owner of Lake Cumberland Winery said: “We are blessed in southern Kentucky to be surrounded by rivers, streams and beautiful lakes full of good clean water. We take it for granted and sometimes forget that there are places in the world where women and children must walk four and five miles each day just to get fresh water to drink and cook with.”

Wine To Water™ is a non-profit aid organization focused on providing clean water to people in need around the world. Today, nearly 800 million people in the world lack access to adequate water and 2.5 billion people lack access to improved sanitation. Somewhere in the world a child dies every 20 seconds as a result of drinking contaminated water. The folks at Wine To Water are devoted to fighting this epidemic. Wine symbolizes good fortune in our society. Wine To Water’s goal is to give the fortunate population (that’s us) an opportunity to fight for those who can’t fight for themselves.

In the 10 years that Wine To Water™ has been in existence it has brought fresh drinking water to more than 250,000 people, dug 500 wells and provided 25,000 filters. One filter kit costs approximately $65 and will provide a family of ten with ten years of clean drinking water. That is over one million liters.

Your purchase of a wine tasting, wine by the glass or a bottle of Kentucky vintage wines made by the local wineries and sold at Lake Cumberland Winery will help raise funds for the purchase of forty water purification systems to be donated to Wine To Water™.

The event will take place at Lake Cumberland Winery near Conley Bottom Resort in Wayne Co. Kentucky. Other wineries participating include Cedar Creek Vineyard and Winery and Sinking Valley Winery both of Pulaski Co. Kentucky and Up the Creek Winery located in Cumberland Co. Kentucky. Musicians, Craft-persons and Artisans are invited to submit an application for a site at the festival. Please contact any of the participating wineries for more information or call or write Norrie Wake at 606-348-5253 or norrie@lakecumberlandwinery.com

Work Keys Assessment for Class 2014

By ROBIN LOY

Adair County High School would like to announce the results of the recent Work Keys assessment for the Class of 2014. The ACT Work Keys is a job skills assessment system designed to help employers select, hire, train, develop, and retain a high-performance workforce. Students are required to take a series of tests on Reading for Information, Applied Mathematics, and Locating Information to obtain a National Career Readiness Certificate. To learn more you can go to .

The Work Keys assessment measures foundational and soft skills needed for workplace success and global competitiveness. Successful completion of the ACT Work Keys assessments in the areas of Applied Mathematics, Locating Information, and Reading for Information leads to earning ACT's National Career Readiness Certificate. NCRC is a portable credential earned by more than 1 million people across the United States. Employers are increasingly using the Work Keys and NCRC in their hiring practices.

ACHS would like to honor the following students who earned a gold certificate on the Work Keys. These students received a score of 5 or higher on all three sections of the test which indicates that they have the skills necessary for 93-percent of jobs available in the work keys database.

One hundred and three students from the Class of 2014 earned silver level certificates. Students at this level scored 4 or higher on all three sections of the assessment. Silver level status is the benchmark score required to earn the distinction of career readiness under the Unbridled Learning Accountability System in Kentucky.

Students who are preparatory in a career path, meaning that they are enrolled in or have completed their third course in an approved career pathway in Career and Technical Education, are required to pass the Kentucky Occupational Skills Standards Assessment or earn an industry certificate in that pathway in addition to their Work Keys certificate to be designated as career ready under the accountability model in Kentucky. KOSSA testing will take place March 10-14 at Adair County High School. Students will be preparing for the exam in their CTE classes during the coming weeks.

Overall, nearly 70-percent of students completing the Work Keys assessment at ACHS last week reached the benchmark silver level status or higher. Students are awarded their certificate level based on their lowest test score from any area. Students scoring at the silver level have the skills necessary for 67-percent of the jobs in the Work Keys database.

A bright spot from this assessment is that if you look at each section of the test individually, 95-percent of ACHS students who took the exam achieved the benchmark score of silver or higher on the reading for information section of the test, 87-percent were at the benchmark on the applied math section, and 77-percent were benchmark on the locating information section.

Troy Young, Principal at Adair County High School, said, "These test results are more evidence that the hard work and renewed focus that we have invested in college and career readiness is paying off for us. We won't be satisfied though until every student leaves ACHS college and career ready. These results show that we're making great progress in preparing students for the jobs of the 21st century. I would like to thank all of our students, parents, teachers, and community and business leaders for stepping up to support our vision of ALL students achieving college AND career readiness.

"We can't do this alone. We need everyone to be involved and we are thankful for the increased support and positive feedback we are receiving from the community. The Work Keys is an integral part of the community's journey to achieve the designation of Work Ready Community and we are committed to that goal."

Ahead of the Curve: Mrs. Grant's Class

By SHAMARIE CLAIBORNE

This story was brought to my attention not by a principal, the superintendent, parents, or even other staff members, but by students. Yes, I said students!

Marion Grant, fifth grade practical living and social studies teacher at Adair County Elementary School, is ahead of the curve as usual. Many of you have heard about the "Leader in Me" program the Adair County School System will be implementing next year. I have written about and showcased a handful of staff members who have taken the ball and are running with it, and the first reactions from students are nothing short of fabulous. They are so proud of what they are doing, and they want everyone to know.

The theme of Mrs. Grant's classroom is. "You're the LEADER of your life!" Students are given different jobs within her classroom such as writing the "I CAN" statement each day, noise control, straightening desks, door closer, passing out papers, and the list goes on and on. Every student has a job. The difference is, students in Mrs. Grant's room receive a salary of $50 per week for performing their job with Thursdays being payday.

Students can "buy" rewards with their funds. There are all kinds of items available at the Grant Mini Mart including everything from school supplies, treats, or you can even purchase a pass to be "teacher for a day." No, it isn't all fun and games. Students are required to bring their money to class each day in case they incur a fine. The money rolls both ways in Mrs. Grant's class. Fines can be imposed for talking $5, yelling or blurting out $5, not listening $10, arguing $20, incomplete assignments $20, and destruction of property $50.

Not only does Mrs. Grant's classroom exemplify the "Leader in Me" program principals of positive responsibility, but it requires students to be responsible for their negative actions as well. It encompasses the core content connected to practical living and students learn about having a job, managing money from payday to payday, and saving for rainy day or for something you want. It is ingenious. She is another shining star at Adair County Elementary School.

Kobe Stapp and Brayden Rainwater showing off their cash deciding what to get from the reward list in Mrs. Grant's classroom.

Elizabeth McClintock spending a few dollars of her money at Grant Mini Mart on payday.

WHEREAS, The Kentucky Board of Nursing is the Executive Branch Agency empowered by the Legislature to license registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and advanced practice registered nurses in the interest of the public protection; and

WHEREAS, The legislation establishing the Kentucky Board of Nursing was enacted by the 1914 Kentucky General Assembly, making 2014 the 100th Anniversary of both the Kentucky Board of Nursing and nursing licensure in the Commonwealth; and

WHEREAS, The year 2014 marks 100 years of protecting the public by the Board on behalf of the citizens of the Commonwealth; and WHEREAS, nursing plays a vital and continuing role in the health cares systems of Kentucky;

Indians Fall To Taylor In District Final

INDIANS 48 TAYLOR COUNTY 71

After Thursday night's emotional comeback and buzzer beater to beat Marion County, the Indians matched up with bitter rival and district favorite Taylor County in Saturday night's championship game. Riding the wave of momentum and excitement, the Indians battled the Cardinals for much of the first half, but in the end, the size and athleticism of Taylor County proved too much for the Tribe, who fell 71-48.

"Taylor County is a very good team and they played very well," Head Coach Mark Fudge said after the loss. "On the other hand, we didn't show the type of competitive spirit needed in order to get a win against an opponent of that quality."

The first quarter was a display of the finest quality of basketball available in this area. A Taylor County offensive rebound and three from the corner opened the game, but Indian point guard Matt Fudge dribbled full speed the other way, stopped on a dime and nailed a step-back triple to pull even. Both squads traded buckets for the duration of the period, with Taylor controlling the offensive glass but the Indians out-maneuvering their pressure in transition.

Chance Melton proved to be a matchup nightmare for the Cardinals, as he slashed his way to eight first quarter points and, combined with the perimeter attack of Fudge and Thursday night's hero, Ty Bennett, the Indians survived the offensive onslaught of Taylor County to trail just 25-19 after one.

The pace of the second quarter was much slower, as both teams settled in from the adrenaline and adjusted to the offensive attack of the other. Melton found senior forward Jake Hixson on a pick and roll for a layup to start the second but five straight points from Taylor County quickly answered the score. An increased involvement from sophomore phenom Quentin Goodin stretched the lead as high as 10, and at the half, Taylor held a nine point advantage, 36-27.

Things began to unravel for the Tribe after the intermission. Goodin notched eight of the first 10 points for Taylor County, while Bennett and Fudge each scored a basket for the only Adair points of

Lady Indians Topped by Marion In Final

LADY INDIANS 51
MARION COUNTY 59

In the third matchup of the season between the two longtime rivals and perennial district contenders, the Lady Indians sought to end Marion's 55-game district winning streak and eight-year reign atop the 20th District last Friday night. After another hard fought battle between the two, Marion again emerged victorious, 59-51.

"We played really hard and we battled for the whole game," Head Coach James Turner said following the loss. "But in the fourth quarter we simply could not score."

Turner's description of the contest was an accurate one, as both teams traded blows from the opening tip. After a deflection out of bounds, Adair found Harlee Smock cutting on an inbounds pass for an easy two—the first of three times the Lady Indians would successfully run the play in the contest. Marion, however, answered right back, as senior standout Alexis Calhoun finished inside after a no-call on an apparent travel.

A drive-and-score from sophomore forward Beth Owens and baseline jumper from fellow sophomore Brooklyn Coomer pushed the Lady Indians ahead, but a Calhoun offensive putback and a triple from the corner trimmed the lead to one. Two more Owens buckets and a three from point guard Alex Keltner tied the contest at 15 with just seconds to play, but a Marion County heave from beyond the arc at the buzzer set the Lady Knights on top 18-15 after one.

A Kassidi Taylor pump-fake and score and a pivot move followed by an up-and-under from Owens gave Adair a brief lead, but an and-one from Calhoun quickly turned the momentum back to Marion. Beautiful offensive spacing by the Lady Indians kept their scoring consistent and balanced, but they had little answer inside for the towering Calhoun.

Free throws from Owens and Coomer countered the inside-out attack from Marion County, and fate intervened with just six seconds left as a loose ball bounced into the hands of Taylor who splashed in the three to cut the halftime margin to just one, 32-31 Marion.

Both squads opened the second half scoreless until the Lady Knights went over the top to Calhoun with 6:07 remaining. The second successful inbounds pass to Smock drew an and-one, and the versatile junior knotted the score at 35.

With the score tied, the two teams would trade baskets on the next four possessions, with both earning their way to the foul line before Adair went high-low to Coomer to pull back within one and then found Taylor for a triple from the wing to head into the final frame ahead 45-43.

Calhoun would draw a foul on the opening possession of the fourth, setting the stage for the remainder of the contest. With Marion the beneficiary of the one-sided physical play, the Lady Indian offense stagnated. A Beth Owens three with 6:14 to play followed another Smock score from an inbounds pass

Indian senior Ty Bennett launched himself into Adair County lore with this three-point buzzer beater last Thursday to beat Marion County 61-60 in the first round of the 20th District Tournament.

Indians Advance to Region on Bennett Buzzer Beater

INDIANS 61 MARION COUNTY 60

The Indians opened postseason play last Thursday night at Marion County High School, taking on this season's host team, the Marion County Knights. After falling behind early, Adair battled back, setting up a dynamic fourth quarter between the two squads that ended in a Ty Bennett three at the horn to send the Indians to the championship, 61-60.

"Needless to say, I'm extremely proud of our effort," Coach Mark Fudge said after the comeback victory. "We could have folded a couple of times but our guys hung in there and showed a tremendous amount of character and heart."

Adair County would open the scoring with a lob over the top to freshman forward Chance Melton after Marion turned it over on their first possession. That bucket, along with another from Melton and a floater from senior point guard Matt Fudge would be the only points of the quarter for Adair, however, as the Knights used their size and quickness advantage to turn the Indians over and race away in transition for easy buckets. After one, Marion led 19-6.

The lead would grow as high as 18 points as Marion rattled off the first five points in the second quarter and forced an Adair timeout with only 49 seconds played in the period. The timeout worked, as Melton drove and scored out of the break, Fudge hit a floater and made an incredible 11 free throws, and Ty Bennett splashed home three triples, including one at the buzzer to cut the lead to just two. At the half, it was 32-30, Marion.

Three straight threes opened the second half for Marion, as the pressure again rattled Adair and the lead ballooned back to 11 with 6:10 to play in the quarter. Two more buckets from Melton, including a beautiful reverse layup, along with the defensive effort of senior guard Marshall Shelley to stop the Marion penetration that had plagued Adair all game long, turned the tide again.

Lady Indian sophomore forward Beth Owens sank a third quarter jumper for two of her team-high 18 points in Friday night's 20th District Championship matchup against Marion County. Adair fell to the Lady Knights 59-51.

THE BREAKDOWN

with Blake Spires

Is there anything better than a rivalry? Seriously, if you're reading this and aren't my mom, you're most likely a big sports fan—and if you're a sports fan, there's no higher level of excitement, passion, nervousness, anger, jubilation and enjoyment than a rivalry matchup.

This hit me last week as I spent four nights driving to and from Marion County to watch our Indians and Lady Indians compete in the 20th District tournament. As tiring as the process may have been on top of a full work week, the exhaustion was saved for the drives home. While at the gym, the electricity was energizing. I forgot about the 90-something mile round trip and the fact that I really should find time to have my oil changed. I forgot that I skipped dinner that night.

What I remembered, vividly, mind you, were games against these same teams when I was in high school. I remembered their players, our players, the coaches, the crowds, what we chanted—all of it. Obviously life has continued since those games, and the outcomes didn't ultimately alter my life in any significant way (at least not as much as it felt like they would at the time), but when the ball was tipped it mattered all over again.

What struck me as the most interesting part was that I was far from alone. With the distance, our student turnout wasn't incredible, but our overall attendance was fantastic. Marion County's very large Robey Dome was essentially full on the Adair County side all four nights. With a dozen or so players on each team, parents didn't fill all those seats.

No. Adair County residents, ACHS graduates, and people who still feel that urge to support their teams filled those seats. They, too, drove roughly an hour in both directions after work each night to cheer on a school many of them graduated from several decades ago.

While there, normally mild-mannered members of the community became enthusiastic participants in every single play of the Indians and Lady Indians, every awful call (and there were several), and every final outcome. Many of these faces belonged to individuals I have seen at nearly every home game during the past two seasons, and many of them were far more invested in these matchups than when, say, Central Hardin came to town.

That's because these were rivalry games. Yes, they were postseason tournament games and the stakes were higher, but advancing in the tournament was a secondary thought. These folks wanted to win because of the name on the front of the opponents' jersey. They, too, remembered the players, coaches and battles of their high school days.

None of this is to say that anyone is stuck in that mindset or trying to relive those glory days. What I'm saying is that these allegiances, these loyalties, die hard—or often don't die at all.

You see it all through sport. The biggestin this state is obviously the Kentucky/Louisville rivalry that culminates twice a year as the two fierce foes meet in football and basketball. It's the talk of the state leading up to both games, and everything from bets to friendships to marriages are involved in the outcome of a game played between two schools that weren't even attended by a massive portion of the fans involved.

You're born into it. You're raised with it. It becomes a part of your identity, and you take on the history, tradition and legacy of the accomplishments of the teams you love. The same is clearly true of long-time fans of professional franchises as well, but in this area, college, and especially high school, dominate the rivalry mindset.

And it's fantastic. When our Indians or Lady Indians defeat a rival like Taylor, Russell or Marion County, they aren't just topping that year's squad. They're beating every version of that team that someone in the crowd can remember, and to them, it's just as sweet as it was the first time around. We may graduate. We may move on to other towns or states or even countries, but rivalries? Rivalries never end.

the first six-plus minutes of the period. Chance Melton scored over the front of the rim after Fudge broke the Taylor County pressure and found him for the layup with 2:48 remaining in the quarter, but by then the lead was 15 for the Cards. Inconsistent officiating compounded the Adair frustration, and after three, Taylor County held a 51-33 lead.

With the daunting margin looming, the Indians found themselves hesitant in the fourth and their offense remained stagnant. Taylor, on the other hand, leaned again on their super sophomore, as Goodin slashed down the middle of the Adair zone every trip down, either finishing at the rim or finding an open teammate. The Taylor lead swelled to 25 after Caleb Wigginton finally finished on the third shot attempt of the possession for the Cardinals.

With 2:19 to play and leading 67-43, Taylor County finally began subbing out their starters, and a vaunted effort from Adair reserves Trevor Willis, Cameron Lasley and others left the score for the final quarter alone just 20-15, Taylor. That five-point advantage, however, pushed the overall score to 71-48, and Taylor County captured the District crown.

“I was disappointed in the performance tonight,” Coach Fudge added. “But we will regroup and give a much better effort in the regional tournament.”

Chance Melton’s 16 points led the Indians on the night, and senior wing Ty Bennett added 12 of his own. Matt Fudge tallied seven, Jacob Pooler, Cameron Lasley and Trevor Willis each had three, and both Jake Hixson and Corey Melton added two for Adair’s 48-point total.

Following the game, Matt Fudge was named to the 20th District All-Academic team; Fudge and freshman Chance Melton were named to the All-Season team; and Fudge, Melton and Ty Bennett were named to the All-Tournament team.

Indians Matt Fudge, Ty Bennett and Chance Melton (standing) were honored after Saturday night's championship game for their selections to various All-District teams. Fudge was named to the 20th District All-Academic, All-Season and All-Tournament teams. Bennett was named to the All-Tournament team and Melton was named to the All-Season and All-Tournament teams.

under the basket, but those would be the last Adair field goals of the night.

Meanwhile, a double-digit fourth quarter from Calhoun coupled with consistent dribble penetration from freshman Haeli Howard kept Marion’s offense steady, and they prevailed 59-51.

“We had a hard time containing Calhoun,” Turner admitted after the contest. “She’s a great high school player. We gave great effort, but just came up short in the end. However, getting back to region is a tribute to these young ladies and all their hard work.”

Beth Owens led the Lady Indians in scoring with 18 points, while Harlee Smock joined her in double figures with 11. Kassidi Taylor and Brooklyn Coomer each scored nine, and Alex Kelter had four to complete the scoring for Adair.

Following the game, Lady Indian senior Emily Peck was named to the 20th District All-Academic team; sophomores Alex Keltner, Brooklyn Coomer and Beth Owens were named to the All-Tournament team; and Keltner, Owens, and junior Harlee Smock were selected to the All-Season team.

An inbounds lob and another three from Bennett cut the lead to four, and after a Fudge floater was blocked, Melton scooped up the deflection in mid-air, scoring at the buzzer. After three, Marion held the 44-42 lead, but the momentum belonged to the Indians.

A Latrelle Irvin layup opened the fourth for Marion County, as their standout senior continued to carry his team when they needed a basket. While a senior shouldered the load for Marion, freshman Chance Melton demonstrated his potential stardom for the Tribe, sinking an 18-foot jumper on his way to 12 fourth quarter points on a variety of spectacular offensive moves and joined the illustrious 1,000-point club with three full years remaining in his ACHS career.

While Melton was flourishing for Adair, Marion lived at the line, trading the lead with the Indians on each possession as they scored on only free throws from the 4:41 mark in the fourth until just 55 seconds remained when they finally converted a field goal to take a 56-55 lead.

Ty Bennett would answer, pulling up for a 16-foot leaning jumper with just under 50 seconds to play, but Irvin raced right back and drew a foul for Marion. The senior converted both, but Melton sank a baseline jumper with 32 seconds remaining to put Adair ahead by a point. Another trip to the line sent Melton to the bench with his fifth foul with 27 seconds left, and after Jacob Pooler was hammered but no foul was called the Indians were forced to foul to stop the clock.

Marion missed both free throws with 5.9 seconds remaining, and with a foul left to give before Adair entered the bonus, grabbed Matt Fudge at midcourt with just 1.8 seconds remaining. Coach Fudge used a timeout and drew up a play for Bennett, who has been the Indians go-to guy in buzzer beater situations all season. Senior Jake Hixson inbounded to Bennett, and Marion swarmed the senior wing with two defenders. Bennett took one dribble toward his right, planted his feet, elevated while leaning sideways and sank the 25-footer as time expired for the 61-60 win as the Adair student section, bench and cheerleaders rushed the floor.

"We actually worked on that very play during practice on Wednesday in case we had to make a last-second shot to win the game," Fudge shared after the game. "The guys did a great job executing, and Ty finished it off by knocking down the game-winner. This was a great win for our team, program and community. I can't say enough about how proud I am of this team."

Chance Melton's 25 points and 10 rebounds led the way for the Tribe. Ty Bennett's late-game heroics left him with 19 in the contest, and Matt Fudge poured in 17 of his own to round out the scoring for the Indians.
